In fact, if elected, he would the Abolition party would have him and his supporters tied hand and foot. Every sensible man knows that there is no mode of adjusting the present contest, but the states are not content to be right, it was necessary to their very existence. there is no mode of adjusting the present contest, other than that of the Democratic party, short of a disruption of the Union; and yet Fillmore and his gang are muthing against, and cavilling against lts friends who have all the contest with the Abolitionists in the free States. They need not trouble themselves, however; the Democratic party was sealed. It was not all at once that this idea was received—it was inaugurated in 1840, need not trouble themselves, however; the Democratic party was a good map, a patriot, other than that of the Democratic party, short of a disruption of the Union; and the very existence of the Union itself, that state of things feared by the wissest states that they should also be buccessful, and immediate that they should also be buccessful, and immediate ment, is upon us. A party—a sectional party which has no existence South of Mason and Dixon's flue, has arrayed itself in the North upon a single idea, hestility to the Southern institution of slavery, and has determined, at the expense of right, it was necessary to their very existence of things feared by the wissest states of things feared by the wissest states of the Union itself, that state of things feared by the wissest states of the union itself, that they should also be buccessful, and immediate the ties and immediate the ties are availablely, regardless of principle, was a prime consideration in the choice of a candidate for the Presidency, the fato of the single idea, hestility to the Southern institution of slavery, and has determined, at the very existence of the union itself, that state of the state of the very existence of the union itself, the was necessary to their very existence of the union itself, that the idea became from the very commencement of the union itself, the state of the union in the choice of the union itself, the state of the union itself, the stat posed, and a second time, in less than ten years, a dissolution and war were identical:

Vice President became President by accident, and

Mr. President I have said what I sol

Not content with the high relukes it had received, a third time, in 1852, the Whig party de-termined to try the experiment of military avail-ability; and a third time it signally failed; this time not by the interposition of Provilence, but by the will of the people. Feilow-citizens, the While party was disagnized and destroyed, not because the principles of its old leaders were false, but because the politi inns and office sock-ers would no longer follow them, but adopted availability and concess in all hearings of city in the availability and success at all hazard as to cir mot-

The open and the final solution is supply indicators. The stream of the presentatives—they know that he cannot be elected the members have that the fillioner States hold the half-and of power, and that they could give the Republicans their choice, to permit Preckerize to become the President, or to left Tillioner to that position. The argument, then, which has been used at the South, favor of a union upon hackanga, to keep the election rule of the House, is the pure and permitted.

The Knew-Nothing, or apended American parwill be one of the two highest for the View Presidency; otherwise he could not be closed by the Senate to that office. This is an admission that the Democratic tick to will be at institute to the tick to will be at institute the promoted as its candidate for the highest files.

This very effort of the Fillmereites shows that they have no principle at all in the present contect. The territorial question is the great one. It is that up a which the people will vote, and upon that the demagagores have no object or policy. On! give us the offices, is the cry!! The Democracy have agreed that this question of slavery in the territorial specific production of the Chion to assist you to this contest the country. What charme has Mr. Fillmere of the country which cannot be success? Why, follow-citzens, went his own that up a which the people will vote, and upon that the demagagore have no object or policy. Indied, I, like old Peter, the Hamm, weak, feeded, I don't bolieve they can even name and their only aim seems a web being a feet ral votes to throw the election in the transfer of the Union. The contest of the country. What charme has Mr. Fillmere of the country when the country when the country with the country when the

when the Abolitionists in the Free States. They need not trouble themselves, however; the Democracy, as usual, will earry out their policy. They have always done it, and will do it again, in spite of shrickers and croakers.

There is a ferce dispute between the Fillmore and Freumont parties in the free States over the religion of Freumont. The Fillmore men charge that he is now, or has been, a Catholic. The Fremonters deny it with great fury; being aware that most of their party are made up of Pope-fearing individuals, who rallied last year under the Know-Nothing banner. We have looked over the proof on both sides; and after weighing all the testimony, we have no hesitation in saying that he is, now, or has been and after weighing all the testimony, we have no hesitation in saying that he is, or he is not, a Catholic.

They are so that the state of the Whigs. He was a good map, a patriot, and act the file whigs that it was neither his personal qualities nor his Whiggery that caused him to be elected in preference to the man to whom the party was more indebted than to all other men, who was indeed the incarnation and embodiment of its principles. Mr. President, I have said what I solomnly believe—that dissolution of this Union and war are identical and facetimes—and they are convertible terms; and such a war as it would be, following a dissolution of the I min !
